

Cedar Key Seafood Festival

October 20th, 2018

Cedar Key is a charming little town with fewer than 1,000 permanent residents and a fascinating history. (It's Florida's second oldest town!) Cedar Key is about 60 miles west of Gainesville, so its out-of-the-way location has helped keep it authentic. The Cedar Key Seafood Festival is the only time you can tour historic Seahorse Key, three miles from Cedar Key. A shuttle boat from downtown takes visitors to tour the island and its lighthouse, which was built before the Civil War. Seahorse Key is now part of Cedar Key National Wildlife Refuge. The Cedar Key Seafood Festival features more than 200 arts and crafts exhibits, live music at several locations, a parade Saturday morning and, of course, lots of great local seafood. Tasting opportunities are abundant. You won't want to miss this fantastic tour!
